

Students Rebuild – April 2013 Last Call!

This is the part of the National Mall in Washington, D.C. that we'll cover with 1,000,000 handmade bones on June 8! We're so amazed and deeply grateful for the thousands of bones flooding in from 800 teams in 26 countries, all taking the challenge.

Bone shipment deadline.

Ensure your bone is one in a million on the National Mall by sending your shipment to arrive by May 1. To make shipping arrangements for arrival after that date, please contact: info@onemillionsbones.org. Live outside of the U.S.? You can also participate! Learn all about shipping real and virtual bones here.

Last Chance: Bring Students Rebuild On Tour! to your school.

Stephanie and Eric would love to visit your school with a free presentation, bone making workshop and an interactive art installation. Contact abby@gng.org to participate in the final Southeast leg of the tour.

Sign up for a Free Virtual Exchange.

The next webcast is April 18th! Webcasts are 60-minute live-streaming events that allow students to learn more about humanitarian crises from a panel of guest speakers and peers.

Students can ask questions to the panel and comment through a live chat-room. Available through May, Interactive Videoconferences (IVCs) provide students with unique opportunities to connect with their peers and guest speakers in real time. In these two part sessions, students will learn more about the DRC and Somalia. Learn more and sign up here!

Plan Your Trip to the National Mall in June.

Click here to help the One Million Bones Project with set up, putting down and picking up bones on the National Mall. You can also plan your trip to the big event here.

Japan

Students Rebuild presents a (very full) week-long tour of Sendai and the Japanese coast now rebuilding after the 2011 tsunami as a comprehensive infographic map! Find your favorite blog posts and see how they all tie together as a region connected through its reconstruction.

Haiti

As Elie Dubois School finishes Phase 1 - the new classrooms, cafeteria and kitchen - Architecture for Humanity turns to historic "Building 2" for a very rare (for Haiti) preservation and rehabilitation of the structure - all leading up to its 100th birthday. Follow our blogs over the coming weeks on this exciting endeavor.
